NUMB. 3119

THURSDAY, MARCH 1, 1744

Gray's Inn Hall, London, and another from Flanders.

Bologna, February 18.

Yesterday an Austrian Regiment marched this Way, and is to be followed speedily by a Body of 4000 Men, which are to join Prince Lobkowitz. It is certain that General is, or at least has been, much indisposed with a Picurettick Fever, occasioned, as it is thought, by the unwholesomeness of the ther. General Count Brown is by this Time arrived at Camp; and in case his Highness grows worse, take upon him the Command. It is whispered that one great Occasion of Prince Lobkowitz's is, was his Concern that Count Colletto remained at Vienna, before he brought the final Orders to the Conduct he is to pursue towards the Subjects of the King of the Two Sicilies.

Hamburg, February 18. The Austrian Army is continually sitting, while the Spanish Troops employ all their in fortifying themselves as strongly as is possible; and before the Season of the Year will permit Prince Lobkowitz to act, the French and Spanish will have penetrated into Italy; and afford Count an Opportunity of escaping out of the Toils which he is held at present. In the mean time, Provisions grow excessively dear and scarce in the Spanish Camp, the Peasants and Farmers carrying them to Antwerp, where they are protected by the English Men of War; so that, at present, they pay very little Respect to the Orders of the Spanish General. The Neapolitan Troops are actually upon the Frontiers; but whether they will enter the Ecclesiastical State, or wait there for Count de Gages, is a Point that Time must determine.

Hamburg, February 21. According to our last Letter from Stockholm, General Keith having received a Series from Petersburg, began immediately to raise Supplies of Provisions for the Russian Troops, and the Orders for building more Ovens; which looks as if he did not intend to quit that Country so soon as was imagined. This is farther confirmed by the new Spoil made of the Swedish Troops, both Horse and Foot. So that, all Things taken together, it seems if some new War would quickly break out; for as the Differences between that Crown and Denmark, are absolutely adjusted. The Report is read, as if the Hanoverian Troops were to form a Camp on the Frontiers of that Electorate, a new said to be without foundation; but the Military Preparations in the King of Prussia's Dominions continue and increase.

Vienna, February 23. Field-Marshal Count Traun now sits regularly at all the Military Conferences, and gives Orders as Commander in Chief. The General of the Forces in Bohemia, Moravia, and the Upper Palatinate, not yet named; nor will be, till after the Setting out of Count Traun for the Army. The Magazines in Bavaria are exceedingly well provided, inasmuch that we all have no Occasion this Year to demand any Supplies from Hungary. It has been discovered, that many of the lower Officers in that Electorate have spread false reports, on Purpose to terrify the People, and get Money out of them; which Practice her Majesty is determined to discourage and suppress.

Berlin, February 29. His Prussian Majesty has been little indisposed, but is at present pretty well recovered. The Conferences held with our Ministers of State, and Foreign Ambassadors, are more frequent than ever; but it is, in a manner, simply impossible to discover any Thing of what passes in those Conferences, at least, any otherwise than by their Effects, which have been lately, very apparent; his Majesty having issued his Orders for augmenting every Regiment of Horse and Dragoons in his Service with 60 Men each. Directions have been likewise given for making 30 Pouches, exclusive of the 60 that are now in Use; and there is also to be an Augmentation of the Carriages and Broad-Waggons; whence we take it for granted, that we shall soon see some Expedition entered upon, which hitherto kept so secret, that we cannot so much guess with what View, or on which Side, his Majesty will act.

Brussels, February 29. We are no less alarmed here at the Motions of the French about Dunkirk, than if we had certain Intelligence of their having an Intention to land upon our Coasts; to prevent the ill Consequence of which, Orders have been issued for the British and Hanoverian Troops to quit, immediately, their Winter Quarters; and, in Conjunction with the Dutch Auxiliaries, and the Queen's Troops, to form a Camp between Courtrai and Oudenard; which will cover the best Part of the adjacent Country, and put us, at once, out of Fear and Danger. We have no certain News of the Breck Squadron, but the common Opinion here is, that it is at last failed to reinforce the combined Fleet at Toulon.

Extract from the Paris Almanach.

Paris, March 4. The Count de Baviere is on the Point of departing for Frankfort, in order to replace the Count de Lautrec, who is on his Return hither from his Embassy to the Imperial Court.

There seems to be something mysterious in deferring the Journey of this Nobleman, whose Arrival has been very impatiently expected at Frankfort for some time past.

M. de St. Sluver, who is appointed to go as Consul from Frankfort to Russia, set out a few Days ago, completely furnished with Instructions in relation to the Treaty of Commerce on the Carpet, at present, with the Czarina.

The Baron de Scheffer, the Swedish Minister, lately appointed to reside at this Court, is likewise daily expected, with Instructions relative to a Treaty of Commerce between the two Crowns.

They write from Dunkirk, that eight Battalions are actually embarked, and that 32 Battalions were in full March thither for the same Purpose.

It is said, that the Duke of Ormond has lately joined the Son of the Pretender at Dunkirk, and is to accompany him on board our Fleet in his Expedition. The Regiments that are to serve in it, are those of Navarre, Monaco, d'Eu, Gondrin, the Royal Corsicans, the Royal Regiment of Marines, and all the Scotch and Irish in the Service, the King's Regiment of Horse, and the Dauphin's Dragoons; the whole to be commanded by the Count de Saxe.

They write from Provence, that there are a great Number of Vessels provided for the Embarkation of the Forces under the Command of the Infant Don Philip, whose Troops are making forced Marches, in order to arrive there time enough for that purpose; while the Army under the Command of the Prince of Conti, who is to be assisted by the Marshal Maillois, attempt an Entrance into Italy through the Alps.

We are informed, that the King of Sardinia is resolved to command in Person on the Frontiers of his Dominions, in Order to be at hand to frustrate the Attempts of his Enemies.

We have received Advice, that Admiral de la Torres is arrived upon the Coast of Portugal, with a Squadron of 16 Men of War, and the Gallies; the Cargo which is said to amount to 30,000,000 of Pieces of Eight.

The last Letters from Marseilles say, that at the Departure of the Courier, the Sea Fight, that had lasted two Days, was not then quite ended; and that they expected, with Impatience, the Arrival of a Courier, with the Particulars of that important Affair.

General Post-Office, London, February 8, 1743.

WHEREAS the Post-Boy, going out with the Mail from this Office, was this Morning, between Five and Six o'Clock, attack'd on the Highway at the Staling Place, on the other Side of Turnham-Green, by a single Highwayman, who took the said Post-Boy into a Field adjoining to the Road, and opened the Mail, and carried off the Exeter and Plymouth Bags: The Person, who committed this Robbery, is a middle-sized Man, and had on a Blue-Great Coat, with his Hat tied over his Head, and he rode on a Sorrel Horse with a White Face, about Fourteen Hands high, and made off for Acton, the Oxford Road.

It is therefore to give Notice, that whoever shall apprehend and convict, or cause to be apprehended and convicted, the Person who committed this Robbery, will be entitled to a Reward of Two Hundred Pounds, over and above the Reward given by Act of Parliament for apprehending of Highwaymen: Or if any Person or Persons, whether Accomplice in the said Robbery, or knowing thereof, shall make a Discovery, whereby the Person who committed the same may be apprehended and brought to Justice, such Discoverer, or Discoverers, will, upon Conviction of the Party, be entitled to the same Reward of Two Hundred Pounds, and also have his Majesty's most gracious Pardon.

By Command of the Post-Master-General,

George Shelocke, Secretary.

Cork, February 12. On Friday, the 3d Instant, about the Hour of Nine at Night, the Widow Catherine Stackpole, Daughter of Joseph Ronayne, of the City of Cork, Esq; a Lady remarkable for her prudent Conduct and Behaviour, and a large Fortune, was forcibly carried away from the said Ronayne's House in the said City, by John Anstons Stephen, of Charleville, and several other Robbers in Arms, who having decoyed her by a false Message, seized on her in her Father's Hall, and put her across a Horse, and carried her in that inhumane Manner to some little Cottage, near Charleville. But as soon as this melancholy Account came to the Knowledge of the Right Hon. the Lord Viscount Butevant, who, tho' perfectly a Stranger to the poor distressed Lady, but out of a generous and humane Spirit, and in abhorrence of such a vile Attempt, came to Ballyvolane, the Seat of John Coppinger, Esq; her Cousin German; and proceeded from thence, accompanied by several Gentlemen, with a great Number of his Lordship's Servants, well mounted, and armed, and travelled the whole Night, so as to get to Charleville by Break of Day; where, after a tedious Search of several Hours, and just despairing of Success, the poor unhappy Lady was found hid in a Cabbage Garden, (guarded by a Russian to prevent her Cries) in such a dismal Condition, from the barbarous and cruel Treatment she met with, that her Life is now in a manner despaired of by the Physicians and Surgeons who attend her. On Friday she was conducted by his Lordship to the said City, where he was received at the Suburbs with the loudest Acclamations of Joy and Thanks, and attended by Crowds of the People to her Father's Door, where he delivered her up, in the most genteel and polite Manner. This is so generous an Act, as really deserves the Attention of, and Thanks of the Publick.
